

I urge you not to vote to relax the current rules on cross-ownership. While the number of media outlets have increased, the vast majority are owned by just a few entities. The ability to own more outlets in a particular market will further decrease the number of truly different sources of news.